

Lesson Plan, 6-9pm, Monday, 10 September, 12018 HE rm. 211, SDCE, North City Campus
 Instructor: Shira Destinie Jones

In our Learning Toolbox: this thought:
 “Know Thyself...” *

Vocabulary:

Copy into your notes, and MindMap each word (what is a Mind Map??):

empire	nouns	prime number	context
dictator	pronouns	composite number	figure out from context
absolute ruler	subject	product	outlining
Mediterranean	object	factor	outline your ideas
east/west	parts of a sentence	Roman Numerals	organize your choices

6pm: Spend two minutes imagining ancient Rome.

Write one or two sentences explaining: I think about X when I hear or see the word Rome. (si no se puede en inglés, no se preocupe; en español también está bien, ¡@ ayudará a traducir en inglés, français aussi...) Please raise your hand when done.

6:02 Continue on work from your folder (on Reading/Literature/Science/Social Studies).

7pm: Stand up & Stretch!

7:02 Reading Comp.: What is context? How can you understand words from the context?
Would making an outline help to organize your possible choices for meanings?

By 70 BCE, Rome’s Mediterranean empire was composed of Anatolia (modern-day Turkey) in the east, Spain in the west, and everywhere in between. In 46 BCE a powerful Roman general, Julius Caesar, marched his armies on Rome. He became a dictator, governing as an absolute ruler.

What is context?

From the context, what do you think a dictator is?

Where are Anatolia, Turkey, and Spain?

Volunteers, who would like to define the words empire, composed of, Mediterranean, and absolute ruler?

7:07 Grammar lecture: Nouns/pronouns, subject/object

What is a noun?

What is a pronoun? (takes place of a noun)

What is the subject in a sentence? Does every sentence have a subject?

Subject Pronouns: (Who is doing the action?)

I	we
---	----

you	you
he, she, it	they

What is the object in a sentence? (gets acted upon...)

Does every sentence have an object?

Object Pronouns:

me	us
you	you
him, her, it	them

What subject pronoun appears in today's reading?

Subject and object pronouns in sentences. Examples:

subject	verb	object
He	talked	to me .
You	told	them.
She	joined	us after dinner.

Do optional online exercise, after logging in...
(Khan Academy)

7:15 Continue with Language Arts work from folders until 7:45; Break if desired, from 7:30-7:45

7:45 Math review warm-up Question: When was BCE? What does CE mean?

What is 2018 CE? Ask any math questions!!!

Work on your mathematics from folders...

8:20: Stand up & stretch, think about outlines.

Please write one sentence explaining when 70 BCE was, and why. About how long ago was that? Draw a BCE/CE number line showing then up to now.

8:22 Mathematics: Roman numerals and Prime Numbers

If you wanted to outline ideas for new a paragraph, how would you begin?
What do I, II, III, and V mean? What is a prime number? Are these prime #s?
What is IV, and why? What is a product? What is a factor?
What is a composite number?

Do optional online exercise, after logging in...
(Khan Academy optional...)

8:40 Exit Questions: 1. Write one sentence explaining why a composite # is not a prime #.
2. What math questions did you have at 7:45? Were they answered?
3. About how many years ago did Julius Caesar become Rome's first emperor?

8:45 Turn in Exit Slip, Dismissal

*This quotation comes from a famous saying from the ancient Greeks (the Oracle at Delphi).